Conceived in the forest of Upper Austria and made in the heart of Europe.

Deep in the Sauwald woods in idyllic upper Austria you will find the village of Kopfing, where for 9 generations the Koller family has been perfecting the art of shoemaking. Think! shoes are passionately hand crafted in Europe which involves up to 120 individual production steps, under strict observation of Europe guidelines - but more importantly of our own uncompromising environmental principles. With over 200 years of traditional shoemaking craft under our belts, we've put our minds to thinking about how to make shoes that are as good looking as they are good for you. This single thought has become our company mission and was the natural choice when it came to our brand name.

The beauty of a vision is when it becomes reality. We've been successfully making our vision reality for over 15 years now, by simply producing supremely healthy shoes from the most natural materials in a look that is both unique and stylish. Every Think! shoe is an exclamation of individuality, standing out from the crowd while simultaneously preserving both anatomical and orthopedic principles. To keep healthy feet healthy, Think! shoes offer indescribable comfort and wholesome support beneficial for bones, muscles and tendons and their complex interplay.

Think! was Green before Green was cool.

Long before it became trendy and in vogue, Think! began creating Earth friendly footwear steering clear of heavy metals, formaldehydes and toxic chemicals that poison not only our rivers, but our bloodstream too.

Wherever your foot comes in contact with the shoe, we use vegetable tanned leather. In most models 100% of the leathers used are all vegetable tanned. Although vegetable tanned leather is more expensive to manufacture and difficult to work with, it is breathable, kind to your skin, moisture absorbing and free from harmful pollutants. Healthier for you and healthier for our planet.

Think! about the environment? We always have!
